COTTON MARKETS.

New York, Dec. 11.—British underwriters' cancollations of insurance on bulls, even of American reasels, bound for German poets is causing serious impediment to exports of cotion to that country.

The steamship Carolyn, clearing from Savannah early in the week will touch at Boston for reinsurance for this reason and with the United States government limiting its insurance risk to $150,000 on one cargo the question has become acute in shipping circles.

The feature of the news from Argentine was that the Italian government has purchased 15,00,000

ing today from New York with 5,000 bales of cotton was insured fully only with difficulty.

The United States government insures for 5 per cent against war risk alone, a hazard which promises to be very preditable and would require the loss of more than one ship in treastly before the loss of more than one ship in treastly before the government could lose.

It was reported today that the English government was refusing pitotage through the channel, but it is known that North Sea pilots can be obtained from neutral nationals.

Shippinents now going forward to Germany are being financed in New York through bankers, hills payable on the arrival of the cotton in Germany through the Deutsche Bank of Berlin.

The Bouth sold cotton contracts again today and the market declined from 8 to 21 points. These operations were accomplished through selling by brokers usually identified with transactions in actual cotton and with Southern spinners. It is known that spot prices in the Bouth as new quoted are nearly nominal, particularly for grades lower than

It was believed that this andden drop in temperature would frighten a great many shorts who would cover freely. This was not the case, however, al-

There is, however, some good sense to be deduced from the facts in the case. It is a fact, for instance, that people who during this peried of disturbance and distress have held perfectly good. quiet eccurities upon which they never expected to get a quotation have enjoyed greater peace of mind and have been made less disturbed than men and women whose fortunes were involved in the markets. That is something to think about, It raises the valid question whether in making investments a great many peo-ple did not pay a lot for something that they never can use or never do use-namely, the quick convertibility of the bond market. It raises another ques-tion—whether the true investor, who puts his money away for safety and for a reasonable income, is not, after all, the wiser man of the two. These are not mestions that can be settled offhand by deductions drawn from the present con-ditions, but it appears obvious enough that the experience of this year has at least lent further color to the theory of safety and income as against safety and
